- K. Invitation to sign onto letter [Tristan} received from Genevieve Cicchiello & Rahul Durai of Confront the Crisis (West Lafayette):

[DATE]

The Honorable Ed Charbonneau
200 W. Washington Street
Indianapolis, IN 46204-2785

Dear Senator Charbonneau,

We are a coalition of community organizations in your district, and we have a common mission of improving the environment and economy in northwest Indiana. We care about our well-being, our environment, and the economic futures of our communities. We are writing to ask you to co-author upcoming legislation to create a statewide climate change task force.

As Hoosiers in District 5, we have always been burdened with substantial industrial pollution, which increases children's asthma and dirty water in the Calumet River. We have become increasingly concerned for our public health with the growing threat of climate change. According to research, our water supply will be more threatened as Earth continues to warm up and we will experience more negative health effects. We appreciate your support on IN SB0271 on small modular nuclear reactors but our community needs greater assistance that a climate task force could provide.

In Indiana's 2022 Legislative Session, bipartisan legislators led by Senator Ron Alting (R-Lafayette), introduced Senate Bill 255, a bill championed by Indiana's youth to create a statewide climate task force. The task force would have brought several important stakeholders to the table to study innovative solutions that the Indiana General Assembly can implement to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, adapt to the effects of climate change, and simultaneously enhance economic development for our communities. This bill is likely to be introduced again in the 2023 Legislative Session, and we hope that you will be a co-author on the upcoming bill.

We believe in an Indiana where our environment is protected, and sustainable industries are developed. This bipartisan climate task force legislation will allow our state government to work towards these goals by creating a plan for Indiana to mitigate and adapt to climate change. For these reasons, we strongly urge you to co-author this bill.

Thank you very much for your time and service to Indiana. We look forward to hearing back.

Sincerely,
